The Voice That Changed The World

In my opinion, as a result of my research, Martin Luther King Jr. was a hero. He portrayed the following qualities of being courageous, inspiring, and helped the world. He proved that one voice could change the world. "The time is always right, to do what's right."

To begin with, Martin Luther King Jr. was very inspiring. One of the most inspiring things he did, to me, was when he was in jail and wrote his most famous speech on toilet paper. "I have a dream" by Martin Luther King Jr. The word inspiring means to influence, move or guide by divine or supernatural inspiration. I think that Martin Luther King Jr. was all of this and more.

As you have often heard Martin Luther King Jr. was courageous, even when the odds were against him. Such as when his house was bombed, he didn't back down. Another example is when he led 200 Negro children in a peaceful but not popular protest, which also showed he would risk even his life. He was very courageous. Martin Luther King Jr. did not worry about himself, but if he had, to me I think he would have been more careful about his protests.

Undoubtedly Martin Luther King Jr. helped the whole world. I have a quote that, to me, says this. "We must learn to live together as brothers, or perish as fools." To me, it means we must respect each other or we will never be happy. I have another quote that I think also supports this, "The quality, not the longevity of one's life is what's important." These two quotes to me support my argument and shows that he even believed in peace, for the whole world.

Martin Luther King Jr. is a hero in my opinion. He portrayed the qualities of a hero: courage, inspiration, and he helped the world. I believe that when Martin Luther King Jr. was born on Jan. 15, 1929, the African Americans finally had a chance at equality. He proved that one voice could change the world.
